MR. MARLEY'S SPEECH

President of Association Calls Attention to Kansas.

Talks About Prohibition as Well as Banking.

A WARNING NOTE.

Sound of his community, for what is good for them adds most to his individual prosperity."

After quoting from President Roosevelt Mr. Stubbs continued:

"While the present situation exists with reference to the lasue of stocks and bonds by public service corporations, the masses of our people are practically prohibited from participation in the ownership of public utilities. The ordinary, everyday citizen cannot afford to jeopardize his small savings by investing them in securities that are subject to the manipulations, and control of stock jobbers and market juggiers.

"How much farther shall we drift in the direction we are now moving before we shall find the lines sharply drawn between the wealthy class and mass of our citizens?"

"The financial character and policies of a nation are formed and determined almost exclusively by the men who are in control of its banking institutions, and the bankers of America owe it to themselves, as well as to the public, to condemn in unmeasured terms the financial jugglery and maneuvers which have violated
